ThermoCare "Safe Heat" Warming and Intensive Care Units

We have used Thermocare Warming and Intensive Care Units since the 1980s. We have used the units for a wide range of domestic and exotic mammals, including monkeys, hedgehogs, wallabies, skunks, ferrets, rabbits, rodents, kittens, and of course, lots and lots of newborn puppies!

We depend heavily on our Thermocare units to help us ensure newborn and neonatal survival. We cannot imagine being without ours!

We highly recommend Thermocare units to our veterinary colleagues, dog breeder clients, and to anyone rehabilitating sick and injured animals, raising orphans, or caring for neonates. A Thermocare warmer can make all the difference between survival and death. These units more than pay for themselves with every precious animal life they save.
